

Pennsylvania Southeast Conference Compensation Guidelines

2018

In the call to ministry, a pastor and a congregation enter into a covenantal relationship. In this relationship, the pastor pledges to care for the spiritual needs of the community and the congregation in turn pledges to care for both the spiritual and temporal needs of the pastor. An important part of these temporal needs is a just wage consistent with the community in which the congregation resides, regardless of age, race, gender, sexual orientation or disability.

Mindful of this covenantal relationship, the Pennsylvania Southeast Conference provides the following guidelines for clergy compensation. The recommended salary structure takes into consideration both size of congregation and length of experience in ministry. These figures assume an ordained pastor and a full-time position (see special section for licensed or part-time ministers). In using these guidelines as a starting point for conversation, congregations are also asked to take into consideration additional factors unique to each setting, including additional advanced degrees and specialized training. Also to be considered is the cost of living, particularly housing, in the particular vicinity of the church.

CASH SALARY recommendations for full-time pastors when no parsonage is provided (includes housing allowance*; years of pastoral service are cumulative, not limited to current setting)

INTERIM PASTORS

Pastors that are serving a congregation during a pastoral transition time are expected to be compensated in salary/housing and benefits at the same level as the settled pastor that is leaving.

Compensation Guidelines

LICENSED PASTORS

It is recommended that a licensed minister, who is working comparable hours to an ordained minister, be compensated at 75% of the salary of an ordained person with similar years of experience serving the same size congregation.

PART-TIME PASTORS

If half-time or more use appropriate percentage of the above guidelines; if less than half-time, use rate of $30 per hour.

Part-time pastors should also receive benefits. For pastors serving  $\frac{3}{4}$  time: Using the percentage of cash salary (including housing) as a base, Pension (14%), Life and Disability (1.5%), and Social Security allowance (7.65%); full health and dental insurance.

For pastors serving half-time: Using the percentage of cash salary (including housing) as a base, Pension (14%), Life and Disability (1.5%), and Social Security allowance (7.65%); also reimbursement for  $\frac{1}{2}$  the cost of health, dental and vision insurance, or church may consult with pastor to cover all of the insurance, in exchange for a reduction in cash salary.

Also expected, but not part of the pastor's compensation, are the following:

- Reimbursement for travel for church work according to the rate allowable by the Internal Revenue Service is to be paid in a timely fashion.
- Reimbursement for continuing education (amount negotiated in the call and renegotiated annually, we recommend $1,000) and allotted time for continuing education (amount negotiated in the Call, we recommend two weeks paid time including two Sundays)

It is appropriate for congregations providing a parsonage also to consider providing an Equity Allowance ($2,000-4,000 per year) so that pastors may be able to provide housing for themselves in retirement.

This process is designed to enhance continued dialogue between pastor(s) and congregational leaders around compensation and benefits issues. It is made possible through your Basic Support of Our Church's Wider Mission.

SUNDAY SUPPLY

The suggested compensation for a Sunday Supply pastor is $200 for one service, travel expenses included, and additional compensation for additional services.
