“Together We Are Stronger”

A Vision for Associations

Did you know? Your church belongs to a group of other UCC churches grouped together in what is called an Association. When the UCC was formed in 1957 much of the authority in the new denomination was vested in the Associations, including the care of local churches within each one. Part of that commitment to care included helping churches when they were in difficult or troublesome circumstances. Over time, however, the task of caring for congregations in times of need moved into the hands of Conference staff, and away from Associations.

In looking toward a Keystone Conference, we know that Conference staff numbers will be reduced. Therefore, care for congregations will need to move back to members and leaders of Associations who will now be supported and resourced by conference staff. Currently, Association Presidents are meeting with representatives from the Keystone Working Group to draft what that work might look like for our Associations. This is largely human resource work to build teams of trained leaders.

Just as the Conferences are in formal discussions for a merger and shared leadership, the Keystone Working Group encourages those types of conversations among our Association leaders too!

“We were talking to our churches about now being the time for shared ministry and realized we need to be talking about this at the conference level too.”

~ Rev. Carrie Call, Penn Central Conference Minister
